CITY INTELLIGENCE.

[FOR ADDITIONAL L. LALITEMS NEE GUTSIDE PAGES,] FERIAN MASS MEETING,-The Fenians held : large mass meeting at the National outeds Hall last evening. James Gibbons, Esq., Vice-President of the Brothernood, presided. The speaker of the evening was Col. P. F. Walsh.

Colonel Walsh made a long and eloquent speech, during which he recited the wrongs of Ireland and the efforts that had been made to redeem that country from British rule. Four-teen hundred years, he said, had passed since St. Patrick plucked the brst shamrock from Irish soil, and on each successive anniversary that day the sons and daughters of Ireland wherever found, placked the shanrock and wore it as an emblem of their faith and nationality. The cause for which Ireland had suffered was not dead; the examples set by those who had died for the independence of their country, and the words uttered by her patriots, still lived in the memory of those for when ther were uttered. whom they were uttered. Centuries may roll away, but at every change the memories of the marryrs of Ireland will be more deeply cherished. The sons of the Irish soil had ever been ready to meet death at the cannon's mouth, that hiberty might prevail, and in every country they are spoken of with high distinction. In the old land to-day, communed the speaker, the sons of Ireland are face to face, in martial array, with the enemies of toeir country, to do battle- to conquer or die-to make their nation a free and independent people; and let us, their kindred, as flesh of their flesh and bone of their bone, ask the God of our fathers to send them strength to strike down their oppressors and rabe their country up.

Some had said that the present struggle would fail, as others had failed, and therefore it should be abandoned. Those who thus talked were not true friends of Ireland, and were unworthy of consideration. The road to treedom was beset with many difficulties, but none should turn back because of those difficulties; for with strong arms and willing hearts the desired end can be reached. He (the speaker) did not de-spair, but had great faith in the regeneration of the liberties of the country. He selt this faith, because there is as much unity in the Irish people as was ever shown by any other people who ever appealed to the God of Battles.

In concluding, he said:—All you have to do is to be true to yourselves, and all the difficulties will be removed. Be united; no matter that we had our dissensions and differences about our leaders, now that the flag is unturied and the men are fighting, we must be united, and raily around that flag until the victory is obtained. The people in Iroland are doing their duty, and you should determine to assist them.

Speeches were also made by James Gibbons, Esq., and William McWilliams, Esq. The meeting was quite enthusiastic, particularly when Companies A. B. and C. of the 8 h Regiment I. R. A., marched into the ball, with drums beating and flars waving.

MEETING OF THE MASTER BRICKLAYERS .-Last evening a large number of the master bricklayers assembled at Phoenix Hall, in fil-bert, above Seventh street. Conrad B. Andress presided, and Thomas T. Scattergood acted as Secretary.

Mr. Audress, on taking the chair, said the meeting had been called for the purpose of con-sidering the demand made by the journeymen bricklayers for a full day's pay for eight hours' work on Saturday.

A committee from the Association of Master Plasterers visited the meeting, and stated that they (the master plasterers) had determined to remain firm in the resolve to resist the eight-hour movement. They also stated that twelve plasterers belonging to the Union, and forty-five outside of the Union, had already gone to work under the old system.

After the Committee had withdrawn, Mr. Andress stated that the master bricklayers could not accede to the demands of the journeymen without doing great injustice to those who employ the masters, and those who have already entered into contracts for the erection of buildings.
One of the delegates to the meeting said that a large number of the journeymen were opposed to the eight-hour movement, and had expressed the opinion that it would not be carried out. The following was submitted:-

Resolved. That the master cricklayers refuse to accede to the demand of the journeymen for eight hours as a full day's work on Saturday and also that they refuse to pay any more for work this year than was paid in 1866.

The first part of the resolution, in reference to eight hours, was unanimously adopted, and the last part of it with only two dissenting

The inmates of the house are classified as foilows:—Healthy males under sixty, 116: working men's wing, 595. Total men reported employed, 467. Total in insane department, 558.

EFFECT OF HABIT. - A curious incident, illustrating the effect of habit upon the horse, happened yesterday. One of a team of four horses attached to a Flifth and Sixth streets car, shipped last evening on the ley track and broke his leg. He was ungeared at once, and dragged aside, it being the intention to kill him as soon as a proper weapon could be procured. Presently the conductor of the car pulled the bell, and instantly the fallen horse made an attempt to start. The snimal was killed shortly after.
